Re: Cool Roof Waterproofing Pty Ltd

About three weeks ago I contracted Cool Roof to treat my roof which is a large steep pitched asbestos roof.

The job was commenced first thing in the mornings and progressed steadily and continuously through long working days in an extremely professional manner, with no mess or breakages, a change from the "norm" these days.

From the very first day we could feel the difference in the dwelling and this improved daily as the further two coats were applied, and after the final coat was applied and it had really set in, the temperature inside the house, which during the beginning of the heat wave reached 39 degrees and ended 42 degrees, was down to 31 degrees. This change was little short of miraculous.

At the end of the job a clean-up was done and once their equipment was removed, you would not have known anyone had been here.

Sean was an extremely amiable young man and the absence of the all too common expletives was a bonus to those who would rather leave the air temperature to nature.
